NO. 271-SEVENTIETH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1928 TWENTY-TWO PAGES

PILOT SAVES LIVES THOUGH PLANE BURNS

Transpacific Express Plane Destroyed, but Worse Event Averted by Skill and Presence of Mind

CROWD IN WAY OF FORCED LANDING

Aviator Swerves Sharply to Avoid Crashing Into Spectators—Goes Under Wires and Over Fence

CALGARY, Oct. 23.—Plunging into the ground and bursting into flames when the pilot swerved to avoid people and automobiles, the Transpacific Express plane, which flew yesterday from Winnipeg, was completely destroyed five miles east of Calgary on the Chestermere Road this afternoon. The pilot and four passengers escaped serious injury.

Difficulty had been experienced by the pilot, W. J. Buchanan, in getting the plane to leave the ground. He was attempting to land again when forced to swerve the plane sharply to the left in order to prevent collision with a crowd of automobiles and a small crowd.

Directly in front of him, as the plane swooped down in the forced landing, Buchanan found telephone wires and a wire fence confronting him, while beyond was the road, with its ditches and fences. Seeing he could not fly over the telephone wires, he guided the plane under them, over the wire fence and across the road, but as he landed in the field at the other side, flames broke out in the engine and a minute later the plane had been completely wrecked.

ESCAPE FROM FLAMES

Buchanan sprang to safety from the open cockpit, while the passengers scrambled to escape through a large hole in the fuselage, through a window and out of the door.

Leonard, one of the passengers nearest the door, was jammed in the wreckage, blocking the way for McNeill, another passenger, who was next to Leonard. Buchanan pulled him and McNeill pushed him under the wing, and with this assistance he was able to get out.

Flames, leaping from the side of the plane, prevented McNeill from following Leonard, and he pushed his way through a hole overhead, while Dow, who was thrown on top of the wreckage, scrambled through another hole in the fuselage. Leonard, Master sprang through the window, cutting himself on the glass, and injuring his leg.

The damage was estimated by the pilot at $34,000.

MR. SPRATT IS RE-ELECTED AS PRESIDENT

Victoria Liberal Association Gives Him Majority of Forty-Five in Large Poll

OAK BAY COST LATE ELECTION

The Liberals of Victoria, in their annual meeting last night in the Sons of Canada Hall, elected officers for the year, selecting largely the same members who served last year.

Mr. C. J. V. Spratt was re-elected president, defeating Mr. W. H. Kinsman, whose name was also put in, by a vote of 266 to 221.

On motion of Mr. Kinsman, the election was made unanimous, following the announcement of the poll.

Mr. A. E. Humphries was re-elected first vice-president unanimously; Mrs. H. Crocker was elected second vice-president, and Mr. W. L. MacKenzie King was elected honorary president.

Explains Election

There were features that were encouraging, however, he said. They had raised the vote in Victoria by 2,000. They were ready, he said, for another battle which was coming, and this time they would not have Oak Bay to contend against.

Mr. Spratt explained the defeat on account also of the fact that election day had fallen on Wednesday. It was a fine day and "our people left the city." There were 2,000 votes of the party that were not cast. The polling showed, he said, that the best vote was about 8 o'clock, when the people were returning to the city.

Following the election, he said, the affairs of the association had been conducted very openly. He wanted harmony in the party and to enter the contest determinedly.

There ought to be a "mighty good chance" to defeat the Conservatives," he asserted.

FEDERAL AID REQUIRED TO BUILD ROADS

Premier S. F. Tolmie Urges Members of Automobile Club to Press Dominion Government for Aid

PEDESTRIAN LAWS GREATLY NEEDED

B.C. Organization Is Committed for Its Work on Highway Programmes and Encouraging Tourists

"I AM strongly in favor of aid being given by the Federal Government toward road construction. In 1919 I worked to that end and succeeded in securing an appropriation toward the cost of road construction amounting to $100,000. This appropriation was kept on the books until 1925. Since then no appropriations have been made. I urge that your organization enlist the support of other automobile clubs in other provinces in bringing pressure to bear on the Dominion Government to bring about the resumption of this grant to the various provinces. The Federal Government should, and it is its duty, to help develop Canada from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific, and this can only be done through improved transportation facilities," declared Premier S. F. Tolmie, when speaking at the annual banquet of the provincial executive of the Automobile Club of British Columbia, held in the Beach Hotel last night.

Mr. George E. Housser, of Vancouver, presided as chairman at the banquet. Among those at the head table were: Premier S. F. Tolmie, Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance; Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary; Mr. Despard Twigg, M.P.P.; and Mr. James Beatty, M.P.P.

Mr. A. W. Cruise, of Vancouver, proposed the toast to the King, which was coupled the toast with the Province. He spoke of the united efforts of the B.C. members of the Automobile Club to help the Government in its road programme and encourage the influx of tourists to this province.

In reply to the toast Premier Tolmie said:

ART GALLERY NEEDED HERE

Lieut. Governor, Opening Exhibition of Island Arts and Crafts Society, Sees Necessity of Building

ART SHOULD MOVE WITH COMMERCE

The imperative need of a proper art gallery in Victoria was voiced by Lieut. Governor Sir T. S. Gore at the formal opening yesterday afternoon, at Belmont House, of the nineteenth annual exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts Society.

In the opinion of both speakers such an enterprise should be backed by the Government and should acquire the importance of a permanent, loan and occasional exhibitions would be welcome.

Victoria has an art gallery, declared Sir Hon. Gore, after commenting on the fine character of the display which the committee had assembled, and expressed regret that the society was threatened with having no place to exhibit next year. The people of Vancouver Island surely would not stand for that. A new gallery, absolutely up-to-date in detail, one of which the people of Victoria and the citizens of British Columbia might be proud, should be built.

WOULD BE INSPIRATION

"It is up to the people of this province to get this art gallery in Victoria," reiterated Sir Hon. Gore. "Such a national inspiration to a great educational institution."

Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, as a result of a conference today between British migration societies, Canadian child welfare organizations, and Federal and provincial immigration officials.

This was stated by the first time that all bodies in Canada, on juvenile immigration have met in conference. The use of training schools for British boys wishing to make their homes on Canadian farms, met with unanimous approval.

APPEAL COURT ENDS HEARING OF POWER SUIT

Argument Concludes in Legal Contest Between Granby Mining Co. and West Kootenay Power Co.

DECISION TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—The Court of Appeal, Tuesday, ended its hearing in the case of Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. vs. West Kootenay Power Co. C. E. Mayers, K.C., and C. H. Locke, were counsel for the appellant, and A. H. Macneil, K.C., appeared for the respondent in the appeal from the Supreme Court's ruling upholding the provincial water boards' decision that the power company has not the right to supply power beyond a radius of fifty miles from Rossland.

The West Kootenay company is opposing the appeal of the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. Justice Murphy, who dismissed its application for a writ of mandamus to compel the West Kootenay company to supply power to the Rossland plant, said in his judgment that the power company's operations at Copper Mountain and Alenby.

"Your company applied to the board to fix rates to be charged the plant at Alenby," remarked Mr. Justice Gallinger, recounting the history of the dispute to Mr. Macneil. "The water board said it had no jurisdiction to fix rates for the plant. There had been no complaint from Alenby over the rates. Then came a stage where it became a question whether you would supply power or not."

The contract was expiring and the West Kootenay company was advised that it had no legal right to supply power outside a certain area," explained Macneil. "The contract with the Alenby company contained a provision that it ship its products to the Trail smelter. Then the West Kootenay company said that Alenby should continue to ship its concentrates to Trail if the contract should be renewed. By refusing to ship to Trail the C.P.R., which

MOTOR MISHAP ENDS FATALLY

MR. R. G. ALLISON SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES RECEIVED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Victim Riding Bicycle at Time Dies in Hospital Without Regaining Consciousness

MR. R. G. Allison, of 431 Parry Street, died in the Jubilee Hospital at 12:15 o'clock noon yesterday as the result of injuries received when he was struck down by a car driven by Mr. Robert Waterhouse, of 170 Old Avenue, on Government Street, near the Shawanigan Lake Lumber Company's yards yesterday morning.

According to the police report Mr. Waterhouse was driving south on Government Street when he struck Allison, riding a bicycle in the same direction, turned to go west on Discovery Street. Mr. Waterhouse, seeing the cyclist turning, steered to the left to avoid him. The cyclist, however, seeing the motorist, became confused. It is believed, and turned directly in front of the approaching car with the result that he was knocked down. His head struck the pavement and he was rendered unconscious. Mr. Waterhouse immediately telephoned to the police and Constable Duncan MacPherson as he found the ambulance. Allison was taken to the Jubilee Hospital where he was attended by Dr. D. M. Baillie. He died without regaining consciousness.

Council Will Be Asked to Approve Of School By-Law

It remains with the City Council whether a by-law on the technical school will be submitted to the electorate at the forthcoming election. At a special meeting of the School Board held yesterday afternoon it was decided to ask the City Council to approve of a by-law being submitted to the voters about December 13. The plans of the technical school, in so far as the cost is concerned, are about the same as those submitted in the last by-law, but some changes are expected to be made with respect to the educational courses.

OTTAWA ASKED TO RECONSIDER HERRING EDICT

B.C. Government Seeks Suspension of Ruling in Interests of West Coast Reduction Plants

SIXTY DAYS' GRACE FOR FISHERY URGED

While the policy of the Provincial Government has not been changed with respect to the use of herring for the purpose of being utilized as a food fish and not being diverted to reduction plants, conditions are such with respect to the industry on the West Coast of Vancouver Island that a request is being made to Ottawa to allow, for the remainder of this season, and this season only, the taking of herring for the purpose of being utilized as a food fish.

The position of affairs has been placed clearly before the Commissioner of Fisheries for the Province, Hon. S. L. Howe, who fully appreciated the result of affairs facing the herring industry on the West Coast. It is said that some $200,000 has been spent in preparing for the handling of herring for the purpose of being utilized as a food fish. To carry out the avowed policy of the Government which would prohibit the use of these and thus jeopardize the industry, it was felt by Mr. Howe, after careful consideration by the members of the Government, that an exception might well be made in the matter for the remainder of this season.

THE MESSAGE

The situation has been placed before Ottawa in the following message, which was sent by the Deputy Minister of Fisheries to the Commissioner of Fisheries for the Province, Hon. S. L. Howe, on October 23.

It was understood that Dr. Robinson also intended to listen for a reply at his home in Boyden, Hertfordshire. The Daily Express sent a reporter there late last night, but he found the house dark. On the front door was pinned a paper bearing the mystic word "Out."

Undaunted, the reporter knocked at the door until Mr. Robinson came to it and said, "If you have come about that message I know nothing about it. I have refused to have any experiments in the house while I am in. My husband went to London. I do not know whether anybody there will encourage him, but there will be no foolishness around this house."

Then she closed the door.

Sir Austen and his party are expected in Victoria from the South Monday. They will arrive in Vancouver, according to plans, Wednesday of the same week.

TELEPATHIST'S WIFE ANNOYED

SENDS OF WIRELESS TO MARS, RECEIVES SCANT DOMESTIC SUPPORT

Dr. Robinson May Find Encouragement Elsewhere, but No "Foolishness" Is Allowed at Home

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Omaruru, the big-headed woman of Mars to whom Dr. Mansfield Robinson, telepathist devotee, addressed a wireless dispatch through the big station at St. Albans, had not answered the radio call up to 3:30 a.m., so far as could be learned here. The call was sent out at 2:15 a.m. and the engineers at St. Albans were listening on a 30,000-meter wave length for a reply.

It was understood that Dr. Robinson also intended to listen for a reply at his home in Boyden, Hertfordshire. The Daily Express sent a reporter there late last night, but he found the house dark. On the front door was pinned a paper bearing the mystic word "Out."

Undaunted, the reporter knocked at the door until Mr. Robinson came to it and said, "If you have come about that message I know nothing about it. Lord Birkenhead Slated For Cable and Wireless Amalgamated Company

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Lord Birkenhead, former Secretary of State for India, who has stepped out of the Baldwin Cabinet to go into business in the "city," is likely to head the new cable and wireless combination, "Imperial Communications," well-informed circles believe. His salary is reported at £15,000. Actual income of the new combination awaits parliamentary action, but the Government's bill providing for it is expected to be passed by both houses long before the dissolution of Parliament next June, and much has been done already behind the scenes to prepare the way. It is declared in political quarters that the question of urgency which caused Lord Birkenhead to leave the Government next week instead of next June, related to his prospective appointment with the new company.

NEW DIAMOND RUSH

WELVERDIEN, Transvaal, Oct. 23.—Hundreds of vehicles, from repulsive limousines to antiquated lorries, participated today in the new rush for the remaining portions of the Welverdien alluvial diamond diggings. The rush was proclaimed, not in the time honored custom with the fall of the flag and the desperate race of diggers, but merely by the opening of six windows simultaneously at the mines offices, seven miles distant. Diggers are now required to take out a license and then peg out ground.

Linking Up of Docks Is Greatest Problem For Port of Victoria

Need of Railway Connecting Waterfront Facilities Stressed by Shipping Men at Conference Called by Industrial Committee of City Council—Whole Situation Surveyed

Local Men Encouraged by Favorable Attitude of Federal Works Department

THE most outstanding need of the Port of Victoria, one that comes before new piers, raising of the present piers, new breakwater or anything else, is the connecting of the port's present docking facilities by railway. This was undoubtedly the consensus of opinion expressed by shipping men who attended the meeting held yesterday by the industrial committee of the City Council, of which Alderman H. O. Litchfield is chairman. The meeting was a representative one, members of the shipping fraternity, naval and military bases, business men, who are members of the Chamber of Commerce, customs brokers, ship chandlers and other allied businesses of the waterfront were there.

REPLY FAVORABLE

Alderman Litchfield told of the favorable reply he had received from Mr. C. Elliott, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and also the favorable hearing given the city and Chamber of Commerce by Hon. J. H. King.

Mr. George McGregor, head of the Victoria Tugboat Company, was the Sir Hubert has been here since October 10 awaiting the Hektor. The British and American consuls at Montevideo are giving the expedition an enthusiastic send-off tomorrow.

WHEAT FARMERS REFUSE TO SELL

Prairie Grain Growers Holding Crop Off Market—Insist on Higher Prices

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—In answer to charges preferred in London that the rising price of grain and cotton would result in an increase in cost of bread and flour in England, is due to the holding back of wheat by the Canadian Wheat Pool, local grain authorities are inclined to think that accusations are made by persons who are not really conversant with conditions.

"The explanation simply lies in the fact that the Western farmer feels the price offered is not enough and he is waiting until buyers are convinced of the higher value of his product. And the non-pool farmer is holding just as much as the Pool itself," one grain dealer said today.

"In view of the very high quality of our low grades, Manitoba four, five, six this year, our wheat is actually cheap. The low grades this year are wonderfully fine and rarely have they been found wanting under the severe imperial tests."

"There is general dissatisfaction among the Western grain growers at the low prices being offered, and no wheat will be sold until a better price is obtained," the authority stated.

Accidental Death

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 23.—A verdict of accidental death was returned recommending the distinguishing mark be placed on open railway cars, was brought in by a jury inquiring into the death of Walter A. Thompson, 771 Seventh Avenue, New Westminster.

BERMUDA IS NOT LIQUOR BOAT BASE

Member of Legislative Assembly Visiting City Says Islands Have Undeserved Reputation

A PLAYGROUND FOR WEALTHY TOURISTS

The Bermudas have an undeserved name as a base for liquor running into the United States since the advent of prohibition, according to Hon. H. W. Watlington, O.B.E., member of the House of Assembly and of the advisory board of the Governor.

Mr. Watlington, who is here with Mrs. Watlington, registered at the Empress Hotel, said that the sentiment for prohibition when the United States adopted that policy was rather strong, but the majority in Bermuda favored strong liquor control measure, which penalized not only the licensee, but also the licensed premises in case of conviction, making the hotel keeper his own policeman, as he termed it, and thus the liquor law is well respected in the islands. The Government has checked liquor smuggling to the mainland, although at the start there was some effort made to use the islands as a base.

PLAYGROUND FOR WEALTHY

The Bermudas have become one of the most important playgrounds for the wealthy American tourists, and a number of hotels are operated, some of which are only open in the summer months. Two lines of steamships connect New York with the islands. In addition to catering for tourists—and Mr. Watlington says there is a general belief that the islands rather than go to Florida—the chief industry is the export of green vegetables, potatoes, onions and cut flowers and bulbs to the mainland.

The country has a democratic form of administration, with a Legislative Council and Assembly, selected members of the chambers, sitting with the executive as an advisory board, and the result works out satisfactorily. With the exception of some reserved legislative powers affecting outside relations and migration, the islands enjoy full self-government.

FAMILY FOUNDED ISLANDS

Mr. Watlington is also head of the boards controlling education and hospitals. His family have been resident in the islands for three hundred years, the first member going out in 1625, sixteen years after Sir George Somers occupied the islands when shipwrecked there on his way to Virginia.

It is forty years since he was in British Columbia, so that the present visit is particularly interesting to him.

FEDERAL AID REQUIRED TO BUILD ROADS

"There is one indication that convinces me that times have very much changed, and that is when you invite a horseman to an automobile banquet. Ever since the first auto was placed on the market the horsemen have been fading away; fading into politics," he remarked, amidst laughter.

ROAD PROBLEM BIG ONE

"With the advent of the car, and its multiplicity, the Government of today is faced with a big problem in its road work. It is no longer just a question of laying roads, but a question of widening them, cutting off the sharp curves in order to reduce accidents; putting a hard surface on old roads that have now developed into main highways, in order that automobile passengers may travel in comfort.

"It is an old saying with us horsemen that a car with one horn can lose a person's life as easily as a bull with two horns, and it is probably because of this that we are faced with the problem of resurfacing main highways to make them efficient for the handling of heavy traffic.

"The Government is heartily in favor of developing and maintaining first-class roads in British Columbia. Auto trucking is increasing rapidly and means a great deal to the farmer in getting his produce to market cheaply. For this reason we must help the farmer toward prosperity by providing cheap means of transportation.

"You will realize, however, how difficult it is to secure revenue enough to carry out the work that is needed in a province larger than Washington, Oregon and California combined, which has a population of only 500,000.

FEDERAL AID

"I am strongly in favor of Federal aid in the building of roads. The various departments of the Dominion Government, particularly the Postoffice, use the provincial highways to a very great extent, and it is only right that the Federal Government should help in the building of these roads.

"In 1919 appropriations were voted to the Provincial Government and were maintained until 1926. In spite of protests, these appropriations have been allowed to lapse. I would urge that your body get in touch with all other bodies of a similar character and make representation to the Federal Government for the introduction of this aid again.

"It is only right that the Federal Government should contribute liberally toward the building of a network of roads throughout the Dominion that cannot but help develop this country from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

CHAIRMAN SPEAKS

Mr. Housner in speaking to the members of the Cabinet said that this province could not hope to compete with the states to the south unless "we have good roads. The American tourists travel where they find the best roads. We, with our scant population, are unable to bear the entire cost of roads. The Federal Government should undoubtedly be willing to help in building up one of the biggest industries by helping to build better roads and encourage more tourists here. I am pleased to see that Premier Tolmie is strongly in favor of this move.

"Our organization has a twofold object. First, we exist to furnish direct assistance to our members by such services as towing, legal advice, etc. Secondly, we exist to perform a public service. We are the greatest single cause of encouraging the influx of tourists to this province. We spent $20,000 last year in bringing tourists here. That is a big public service paid for by the 8,000 motorists who belong to this organization.

"We exist to promote safer conditions on the highway. We are very anxious to procure a uniform traffic enforcement and are anxious to keep pace with the rest of Canada and the Pacific Coast in that regard.

"Another problem facing us is the gasoline tax. There is some talk that the Government is considering the raising of the gasoline tax. We do not presume to dictate or even suggest, but it is our belief that the tax is sufficiently high at the present time. The question of course is interlocked with a flat rate on licenses for cars, but we believe that only the owners of the heavy high-priced cars would benefit by this and the more numerous owners of smaller cars would be placed at a disadvantage.

PEDESTRIAN LAWS

"Another question that we hope the Provincial Government will take up is the providing of laws governing pedestrian traffic. At the present time cities such as Vancouver and Victoria have no power to regulate pedestrian traffic.

He suggested this was a matter that might be taken up by the Attorney-General's department, by way of amending the Highways Act. Mr. R. E. Berry, of Vancouver, who represents the Interior on the directorate of the Automobile Club, pointed out the necessity of paving the road out of Vancouver to Chilliwack and improving the road to the Prairies via Nelson, while the Revelstoke-Golden road was under construction. He was heartily supported in his remarks by Mr. E. G. Baines, of Craig Lodge, Lillooet, and

Mr. George Cassidy, of New Westminster.

"Don't throw the Chilliwack road up in my face again," Attorney-General Pooley declared. "I traveled over that road five weeks ago with other members of the Cabinet, and had it thrown in my face the entire length. As a matter of fact I haven't got the dust out of my lungs yet. There is no doubt that that dust should be laid and laid permanently," he said in giving his sympathetic support to the project.

Mr. Despard Twiss, president of the local branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia, said that today the question seemed to be "roads, more roads, and yet more roads." When one took into consideration that the tourist industry of British Columbia is growing at a second only to the wheat-growing industry of the United States, one could readily see the importance of having better roads. The official estimate of revenue from tourists last year was $25,000,000. The trek in the past had been to the Northwest, then to California and next to Florida. It was now coming this way. British Columbia should be prepared to reap the rich harvest that would be hers by encouraging as many tourists as possible by having fine roads.

The province had four or five large natural parks and not one had been developed. Roads should be run into these parks so as to attract tourists to this province.

Mr. Housner spoke for some time on the work of the organization in "signing" the highways. The Government had made a grant of $5000 toward this work and they hoped they would continue to make such grant until the work was completed.

Colonel J. H. McMillan, superintendent of the British Columbia Police, spoke a few words of appreciation for the manner in which the automobile club co-operated with the police to maintain "safety first."

Hon. W. C. Stelmly in addressing the gathering said he knew of only two kinds of deputations; first the one that wanted its taxes reduced, and the other that wanted expenditures. He understood the problems faced by the automobile club, but there was always that other problem of securing the money to carry out the work with. His advice to the club was that they encourage more tourists to eat up more gas and swell the money for roads would be solved. He ended by saying that he did not know of a more painless way of extracting money from taxpayers than by way of the gasoline line and motorist in arrears on his taxes.

PROPER TRIBUNAL

On the question of whether Mr. E. C. Myers, K.C., counsel with Mr. C. H. Locke for the Granby company, had invoked the aid of the proper tribunal, Chief Justice Macdonald said:

"If the water board had jurisdiction, that was the proper tribunal; but when they say they have no jurisdiction, this is the court to come to." Mr. Justice Macdonald said that he would on this issue be bound only by express statute.

"We have been accused of doing some awful thing," protested Mr. Macneil at one stage. "I want to put myself on record that we are doing nothing of the sort."

"Why should a company, which has been granted such wide powers and privileges for the development of the country, tear down the edifice?" inquired Mr. Justice Macneil.

"I think we need legislation to put it right," retorted the power company's lawyer. "Why should we be like the ostrich and bury our head in the sand?"

"There is an old saying, 'Let sleeping dogs lie,'" commented Mr. Justice Macneil.

"That may be all right with dogs," answered Mr. Macneil, "but on a question of title, I think it is better to have it rectified."

"It all comes down to the single point," interrupted Chief Justice Macdonald, "have you any right to cut off the power?"

The Chief Justice pointed out that the appellant contended that when the West Kootenay power company acquired the Okanagan company's franchise, it became obligated to supply electric power in the Okanagan company's area in which the Granby company's operations were conducted.

PIONEER LIFE

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Oct. 23.—Miss Evelyn Dempsey, of Blackfoot, lies in the Royal Inland Hospital, victim of an unusual shooting accident. She was taking a 38 calibre rifle off the wall of her residence when it slipped and fell, the butt coming in sharp contact with the floor, exploding the cartridge. The bullet hit her leg under the knee and entered the groin. Dr. Wallace of this city went out and extracted the bullet. Mrs. Dempsey had to be brought part of the way on a stretcher and suffered considerably because the bone was shattered. It is believed she will ultimately recover.

Indian Boy Shot

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23.—Peter Chief, twelve-year-old Indian boy, was shot and killed near Beaulieu, Man., on Monday by an unknown person, believed by police to be a hunter.

The boy was picking roots with his mother when a shot from the woods struck him in the body, killing him instantly. Beaulieu is on the C.N.R. about fifty miles northeast of Winnipeg.

first to offer suggestions. He said it was impossible at the present time to handle eastbound cargo at this port through the lack of railway connections between Rithet's piers and Ogden Point. This was the most vital need of the port of Victoria.

At the present time the C.P.R. could not load cars at the Ocean piers owing to lack of connections with the ferry slip at Ogden Point. A railway should connect the Rithet piers with the Ogden Point piers.

This would not only make it possible for both the C.N.R. and C.P.R. to handle larger quantities of cargo here but would solve the city's interchange truck problem without putting anyone to any great expense.

He held no brief for either transportation company. He felt that no one company should get a monopoly on this port, but that the C.P.R. and C.N.R. should be brought together in so far as railway connections were concerned. Raising the height of the Ogden Point piers was a mere bagatelle compared with the importance of having railway connection between the two Ocean piers.

Mr. John Jardine laid proposals before the meeting, in which it was suggested linking up the Industrial Reserve and Ogden Harbor with the Ocean piers by spanning the harbor with a railway.

MUST LINK DISTRICTS

Mr. L. A. Gale said no progress could be made in the development of this port until the three industrial districts, separated by the retail district, were brought together by rail connections. The trucking was already noticeably heavy on Government Street. If railway connection was not made soon this trucking of freight from industrial districts to the Ocean piers through the city via Government Street would offer a serious traffic problem. It suggested a circular quay in the Inner Harbor as one way in which to get railway communication between the Ocean piers and the Industrial Reserve.

In this he included the rail connection between Ogden Point and Rithet's piers.

Mr. William Allan, of the Pacific Steamship Company, said the present needs of the port were the raising of the Ogden Point piers and the protecting of ships docking there by installing buffers and railway connections with Rithet's piers, giving interchange truck facilities to both the C.N.R. and C.P.R. These, to his mind, were most essential in the development of the port.

With regard to a new breakwater he suggested that careful consideration be given this before steps were taken. The pilots should be consulted. There were treacherous currents in Victoria's harbor. The present breakwater had caused new currents and the effect of the north breakwater on existing currents would have to be studied with the view of safely docking ships.

WOULD ACQUIRE PIERS

Mr. A. F. Moffat, of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Line, said that before rail connections could be carried out at the Ocean piers it was his opinion that the Rithet piers would have to be acquired as the present state of the piers would not permit of the carrying of heavy loads on railway tracks. It seemed to Mr. Moffat that the Ogden Point docks had been built in the wrong place. They should have been located on the other side of the harbor, adjacent to Victoria's industrial district and within convenient distance of industrial sites in Esquimalt. This should be brought to the attention of whoever surveys Victoria's harbor before any new piers are erected.

Mr. George McGregor urged the necessity of pointing out the Ogden Point piers with concrete piling. The present flat concrete pier was a terror to pilots and drew shipping from those piers because of the stone wall that faced pilots as they brought ships to dock. When ships hit a concrete pier something was bound to happen and it happened to the ships. Frames were damaged in docking against resisting piers.

He did not think it was a wise plan to build a new pier between Rithet's wharves and Ogden Point. Water was so shallow there that the pier would have to project out

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's uric acid, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is lemon juice, the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with sodium bicarbonate and used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent litina—water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders. By all means drink lots of good water every day. (Adv.)

beyond Rithet's wharves and the Ogden Point ferry slip, thus making docking at these two points extremely difficult.

Alderman William Marchant asked the shipping men what their outlook was for the business future of Victoria. Were such port facilities as proposed justified in the light of what business Victoria might develop.

COMPETITION NEEDED

Stewart Yates answered by saying that competition was needed in Victoria and until such time as the C.N.R. did some trading in Victoria business would be retarded. The C.N.R. should be induced to make Victoria its terminal by instituting a ferry service between Steveston and Victoria, which would place Victoria within three hours of the mainland. It had been proven before that eastbound freight could be delivered more quickly from Victoria than from Vancouver.

Captain Kirkendale thought this was a matter for the merchants of Victoria to solve. They had let Vancouver merchants take the West Coast business from them because they had not been alert to the opportunities on the West Coast. Victoria handled no business north of Duncan. It was up to the merchants of the city to go out after the business, and when they got it to attend to it.

Mr. William Ivel again outlined plans for a harbor commission and port authority. There should be some management of port business. Victoria was practically the only unorganized port on this coast.

Alderman Litchfield thanked those present for the valuable suggestions and advice given. Before the meeting adjourned a resolution was passed endorsing the city's action in seeking better harbor facilities.

Head COLDS

Checked this Modern Way

HEAD colds are not so dangerous in themselves. But, if neglected, they mean increased discomfort, and often lead to serious trouble.

At the first sneeze, place some Vicks up each nostril and snuff well back. Also melt some in a bowl of hot water and inhale its healing vapors. This quickly opens the air-passages.

To get the benefit of the healing vapors all night, rub Vicks on the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the warmth of the body that releases the vapors. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

"I used to brood over my predicament and wonder if I would ever have the beautiful complexion so many of my friends have. Now, it is all so simple I can hardly believe that my skin once gave me so many heartaches."

"It was just a piece of luck. Seems more like a dream. I heard of a woman who told how she began taking this new medicine called Husky for her stomach, and to her great surprise it rounded out her sunken cheeks and cleared her skin of the pimples she had. That was like a message from the fairies for me. I have been taking Husky ever since, and I never go anywhere but what people ask me how I keep my complexion so beautiful."

Pimples, rash, and the common skin troubles which ruin complexions, are nothing more than signs that your system is not getting rid of the excessive acidity which souring food generates on your stomach. OPPORTUNITY APPEARS AT CITY'S DOOR

Hon. J. H. King Says It Is in Best Interest of Victoria to Return Supporter of Federal Government

DEFENDS POLICY OF ADMINISTRATION

Immigration Issue Presents Extremes, Through Which Ministry Is Seeking Middle Course

"If the Liberals place a representative man before you in the coming election, it would be in the interests of the citizens of Victoria to support him, at least for the remainder of this Parliament. You need not worry what will be done when the general election comes. I think you understand the situation." This is the way in which Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, placed the situation before the members of the Liberal Association of the city at the annual meeting last evening.

The address of Dr. King was not a long one. The chief business of the meeting was the election of officers, and it was deemed best to allow as much time for this act as possible.

He referred to the gathering of Liberals at the meeting as not resembling defeated ones, although they had come through a defeat. He said that he made no excuse for being present, as it was in the interests of the citizens of Canada, of the Government of Canada, and of the Liberal Party that he attended the meeting.

ERA OF PROSPERITY
The Government at Ottawa, he said, was doing things which were in the interests of Canada. The policies put forward since the Liberals came into power in 1921 had brought prosperity to Canada. Financial papers, bankers, labor leaders, and others, had agreed that Canada was never more prosperous before.

The Prime Minister was putting into effect the policies that had been initiated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1896. In this it differed from that of the Conservatives inasmuch as it went on the principle that prosperity came only with the extension of trade with the whole world.

Conservatives, when they came into power, did not bring in the policies that they had advocated, that of higher tariffs. This was because they realized that it was impracticable to do so. It would be absurd, he said, to say that the people of Canada should use all the wheat grown in this country, as it would be to say that the United States should use all the cotton grown there.

The greatest prosperity in Canada, he argued, had been in the periods when the Liberal party had been in power.

The present Government had met the situation fairly in the country. It did so by reducing expenditures and by doing things that would prompt trade and commerce for the country.

Dr. King went into the development in various lines of industry in the Dominion, which was making it one of the greatest in the world.

MIGRATION ISSUE
It was not true, he said, that the Government was not in favor of British immigration to this country. In answer to this he referred to the fact that Canadian doctors had been sent to England to examine migrants. When this did not meet the requirements, he said, the United States and six hundred British doctors appointed to co-operate and carry out this work. The Government was spending thousands of dollars to give information to intending settlers who might be wanting to come from England.

But the people of Canada were not united as to what extent immigration should be sought. Labor o-jected to flooding the labor markets with newcomers. Others wanted to let all come to this country. The better policy was to encourage immigration to the extent to which it could be absorbed. That was the policy of the Government, and of Parliament, as expressed in the recent report of a special committee of the House.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
The speaker referred to the industrial development that was taking place throughout the country from one end to the other. There were indications that the industrial development was coming westward in answer to the demands of trade here. This was shown in the announced intention to build a glass factory in Regina. There were signs of it in Victoria, and he did not doubt that with the facilities for shipping that there would be still greater development here.

Dealing with his own department, he told of the generous way in which the Government was dealing with those who had given services at the front. Canada was paying the largest average pensions of any country, including the United States.

This social problem was not yet settled. There would need to be changes in the laws from time to time to meet it.

Practically all the service clubs of the city have undertaken to convene tables for the big anniversary tea which the Y.M.C.A. Women's Auxiliary is giving on Wednesday, November 7. The event has been a marked success previously, and under the convenship of Mrs. James Fletcher, president of the auxiliary, great preparations are being made again this year. SCHOLARSHIP IS PRESENTED

Mr. R. Hammond, Victoria College Student, Receives Kiwanis Club's Award at Dinner in Empress Hotel

FINE PROGRAMME GREATLY ENJOYED

Presentation of the Kiwanis Scholarship of $100 for 1928 to Mr. Reginald Hammond, a student at Victoria College, was made last night by Dr. William Russell, chairman of the Kiwanis education committee, at the club dinner in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Dr. Russell said the club presented each year a scholarship to a student at Victoria College, the purpose being to assist students who have proven worthy in their studies, and are anxious to continue their education.

The speaker said Mr. Hammond was a keen student, a real sportsman and a good debater. He had attended the High School here, and had completed his first year at the Victoria College. Mr. Hammond's conduct and achievements had well merited the scholarship award, and he expressed the best wishes of the club for his future success.

In accepting the scholarship, Mr. Hammond thanked the club for the award, saying he believed it would prove an incentive to diligent study. On behalf of Victoria College, he expressed appreciation of all that the Kiwanis had done for the students at the institution.

"I hope I will maintain the high standard that has been set by those who have received Kiwanis scholarships in the past," said Mr. Hammond, amid cheers.

The dinner, musical evening and dance inaugurated the Winter programme of activities of the club, and the large number of members, their ladies and invited guests thoroughly enjoyed the fine programme.

Mr. C. Elwood Watkins, president of the Kiwanis, presided at the proceedings.

Mr. J. Frederick Stone, Irish tenor, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company and Lucile Handle Stone, accomplished American pianist, contributed to a much appreciated musical programme.

A novelty balloon stunt was provided for the ladies, and created much amusement. The winners of prizes in the competition were Mrs. Gordon Kenning and Mrs. Harry Beach.

The club endorsed the move sponsored by Victoria Post No. 1, Native Sons of British Columbia, to have the Leech River area, comprising approximately 66,000 acres, situated in Malahat district, Vancouver Island, created into a public park. The area is rendered interesting by many memories of early settlement on this island and is of great natural beauty, eminently suitable for all park purposes, it was pointed out.

The Kiwanis orchestra rendered a splendid programme of music during the dinner. The evening's entertainment was concluded with dancing until midnight.

Fame is relative, and Bill Shakespeare is known to thousands of moderns only because he is a friend of Gene Tunney.

IMPORTS FROM U.S.A.

Canada bought from the United States during the month of August goods to the value of $85,250,740, most of which could just as well have been manufactured in this country. The amount of money sent out of the country to the United States was an excess of $10,610,142 over the same month of a year ago. The latest figure of imports from the United States indicates that every man, woman and child in this country is buying from the American side at the rate of $9.00 per capita per month, whereas Americans take from us of Canadian commodities but 36 cents per capita. Of the goods which the United States took from the Dominion the vast proportion was of raw products, which are manufactured on the American side and some of which, in their manufactured state, find their way back here for sale on Canadian markets.

The tariff relationship, as between Canada and the United States, appears to work very substantially to the advantage of the latter country. All the time our purchases from the American side are increasing more money is consequently leaving the country, and it is not offset by even a proportionate amount coming in because of any growth in our exports. On the contrary our exports are declining in ratio to our imports. In a country with such great natural resources as Canada possesses there is something lacking in a fiscal policy which decrees such a state of affairs. What most distinctly is necessary is such tariff legislation as will conserve our raw resources for manufacture within our boundaries. This policy will only be effected when there is a Government in power at Ottawa which believes in the doctrine of Canada for Canadians.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S ELECTION

A general election is taking place in Newfoundland on Monday next at which the issue, as put forward by the Government, is the necessity for a survey of the resources of the colony and that portion of Labrador included in it so as to derive the fullest benefits from their development. Under the Labrador Boundary Award Newfoundland is confirmed in the possession of 100,000 square miles of lands which were in dispute. The area is potentially very rich. It has great hematite deposits, wealthy timber land and water powers capable of developing 10,000,000 horsepower. One project for the utilization of the resources of the Labrador area is the transport of quantities of pulpwood from there to Newfoundland to be manufactured at newsprint plants.

At the last general election in 1924 Mr. Walter S. Monroe was returned to power in succession to the Squires Administration. The then Premier had a following loosely bound together, containing indeed dissident elements, as events proved. A decision on his part to "clean house" resulted in disaffection and he was driven to the plan of inviting members of the opposition to co-operate with him to put legislation which the Government considered necessary. Then came the decision to hold a by-election in East St. John's which had been deferred for a long time, and this resulted in a decisive defeat for the Government candidate. In May last Premier Monroe found himself facing the Legislature with a majority of one. He managed to carry on to the end of the session, but then he resigned and a new administration, under Mr. F. C. Alderdice, took office. It is Mr. Alderdice who is now appealing for a mandate, and he is opposed by a former Premier, Sir Richard Squires. Mr. Alderdice is comparatively new to politics, having entered the Legislative Council in 1925. He was named as leader of the Government in the Upper House in August last. His chances of being sustained in power are regarded as good, though he is being subjected to a strong campaign in Sir Richard Squires' renewed bid for office.

THE INCOME TAX INCUBUS

Mr. H. K. S. Hemming, of Montreal, says that the income tax—he is speaking only of the Federal impost—"has scarcely a single redeeming feature in its whole make-up." Where there is both a Provincial and Federal tax of this nature his arguments become emphasized. There is, for instance, he says, a heavy responsibility that rests upon the Government in being a party to any system that "makes liars of a whole nation." The most "honest" of men, Mr. Hemming says, "evince each year a desire to escape with the minimum or less, but with those less scrupulous the way in which many persons are willing to forego themselves in order to save a few dollars is nothing short of astounding."

He alludes to the item of cost in the collection of the income tax. There are in Canada "a whole army of high class men employed in the income tax offices who well might be employed in productive work of some kind, rather than that of hindering seriously the progress of the country as they are now doing." Evidently Mr. Hemming does not consider income tax collection as an industry, although there is more industrial endeavor applied to it than in almost any other department of government. He says it has never been possible to secure from the Minister of Finance the figures covering the cost of salaries, rentals, printing, stationery, etc., paid in the income tax offices. He attributes this lack of information to fear of divulging the truth. He believes that the figures involved are many times greater than "any additional outlay that might be involved by increasing the rates levied in the Customs schedules in order to obtain the same amount of revenue."

There is another item affecting income tax collection which is too often overlooked, namely, that of the fees paid to lawyers, accountants, etc., in preparing the annual returns of the taxpayers. Mr. Hemming in commenting on this feature might have added the time employed in the offices of companies and corporations in preparing employees' returns, wastage which is duplicated by the fact that the employees themselves are also called upon to make similar returns. The expenditure of money and the loss of time in connection with the collection of income tax constitute factors that are strong arguments against the imposition, while, as well, as Mr. Hemming points out, "the disturbance caused to business in general, in these days of keen competition, must result in a heavy loss to the country." Most of the provinces of the Dominion are only subject to the Federal income tax. British Columbia has two such taxes, the other imposed by the Provincial Government, which has a completely separate machinery for collection. This province is a dual sufferer from one of the causes which Mr. Hemming rightly believes operates against prosperity. The very least that could be expected in this province is that a single piece of machinery should be employed for the collection of all income tax.

AN AGRICULTURAL OPPORTUNITY

A country so rich and varied as Canada in its agricultural possibilities should not import products which can be produced equally well at home. One of these is the soy bean, a native of China and Japan. It is grown to an enormous extent in Manchuria, where 25 per cent of the cultivated area is given up to it and where it forms the chief freight of the South Manchurian Railway. Its uses are many in number. Not only are the beans in varying forms an excellent food for cattle, but the bean oil is used for burning, cooking, as a lubricant, as a substitute for butter, in soap making, and as high explosives. The bean cake is a valuable fertilizer. By soaking, crushing and boiling, and adding sugar, the beans can be made into a sauce or used as a substitute for chocolate.

The soy bean has been grown to a small extent in every province of Canada, but there seems to be room for a great increase in the production of it. A bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, descriptive of the soy bean, states that Canada has imported annually during the last seven years, an average of 5,000,000 pounds of soy bean oil for use in the manufacture of soaps. One ton of the beans yields approximately 100 pounds of oil. As a ton of beans would be an extremely good yield per acre the quantity of oil imported annually represents the product of at least 50,000 acres of the soy bean. Moreover, the cake or meal resulting from the extraction of oil from soy beans has a feeding value equal to that of linseed meal or cotton seed oil cake, and it is imported into Canada in considerable quantities for feeding purposes. Why do we not raise these beans at home? Why can we not grow and make our own soy bean food for cattle?

Even where a politician may believe what he wants to believe constitutes no reason why he should give the lie to the facts of the situation. Mr. Lloyd George predicted, "an enormous accession to the Liberal strength in Britain." About the time he was speaking the results of the Tavistock by-election was announced showing that the Liberal candidate was defeated and secured a smaller vote than in the last general election.

THE WELL-KNOWN RED HERRING

Certain Liberal newspapers, unable to defend the action of Hon. Peter J. Veniot in arrogantly flouting the Civil Service Commission, have raised upon some minor features of the Simcoe and Briden cases to assail the Government's critics. These organs, which defend party, right or wrong, are making reputable people call each other liars over side issues which are quite beside the point.

The issue is much bigger than whether some former soldiers have been treated unjustly. That is serious enough, but the vital national issue which the Simcoe and other cases have pointed to is: Shall Parliament abolish the Civil Service Commission, which it created, and frankly return to the spoils system, or shall the Civil Service Commission be rescued from the humiliating position of a cat's paw for the King Government, a position in which it has been placed by the Postmaster-General? That is the issue, and it is being totally ignored by Mr. Veniot's defenders. They do not even mention it. Instead they draw red herrings across the trail, hoping the odor may divert public attention from the point of the whole business. This play upon unimportant side issues to avoid uncomfortable and embarrassing discussion of bigger and more vital questions is ancient political practice. It has been discredited too often to have any effect on public opinion.

The Canadian people, outside of the politicians and ward heelers, are opposed to the return to patronage which Hon. Mr. Veniot is attempting. They will not be sidetracked by partisan defenders. Several newspapers traditionally friendly to the Liberal party have condemned Hon. Mr. Veniot in connection with the Simcoe affair. The electors will be more impressed by these papers than they will by the blind defenders.—London (Ont.) Free Press.

Peace rules the day where reason rules the mind.—William Collins.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

The newspapers, the politicians, the financiers and the manufacturers of the United States are manifesting a great deal of interest in the progress of Canada and are saying much that is kind about Canadians. All of which is gratifying to Canadians, for it is written that it is a goodly and a pleasant thing for brethren to dwell together in unity. Americans and Canadians are very near neighbors, and it is altogether seemly that they should be good friends. Nevertheless friendship is one thing, and business is quite another thing. While the politicians of the United States are at the present time making friendly gestures in the direction of Canada, they are at the same time talking about the adoption of measures that may have somewhat serious effects upon the expanding business of Canada. The economic policy of the United States is what it always has been, "The United States First," regardless of consequences to all other nations, friendly or unfriendly.

Canada has become the best customer of the United States will not affect the economic policy of the republic. A short time ago The New York Times printed an editorial eulogizing Canadians and complimenting them on the remarkable progress their country was making in business. That article was reprinted in nearly all the Liberal newspapers of Canada. It was a good article and was worthy of reproduction. But there was a sentence or two in it whose significance the Liberal newspapers did not appear to catch and draw the obvious moral from. The Times said Canada had become a wonderful producer and manufacturer of raw material for the factories of the greatest manufacturing nation in the world, the United States.

The friendship of the United States for Canada therefore is not based upon anything so abstract, and possibly ephemeral, as sentiment. It is founded upon business considerations. And because it is so founded, it is both reasonable and sound. There may be an element of sentiment in the business relations between Great Britain and the Dominions, although that is a matter upon which it might be rash to dogmatize; but there is absolutely no sentiment in the business relations between any of the sovereign states of the world. So in discussing the relations between Canada and the United States there should not be the slightest danger of giving offence to a near and friendly neighbor.

The ordinary people of the United States are not interested in the progress of Canada. They are absorbed in the progress of their own country and are indifferent to any of the external causes of that progress. When their leaders tell them that certain products from Canada are being imported and are competing with certain products of the United States, and that such processes must be stopped, they are told something they can understand and will enthusiastically applaud. But the Big Interests take a larger and more comprehensive view. They need raw material in their business, and it would be a serious matter for them if Canada, which is a big exporter of raw material and a heavy importer of manufactured articles, were to discard sentiment and regardless of threats of retaliation were to decide to take the fullest advantages of her strategic situation and become a manufacturer of raw material instead of an exporter of raw material.

The New York Times in its article said that the United States is the greatest manufacturing nation in the world. Only a few years ago Great Britain was, without doubt, the greatest manufacturing nation in the world. And Britain at that time thought her position was so secure that she would remain permanently the greatest manufacturing nation in the world, drawing supplies of food to feed her industrial population and raw material to feed her machines from all parts of the world and supplying markets of the world with the finished products of her manufacturing.

But all the other nations, discarding theory and sentiment, decided that they would do their own manufacturing, built tariff walls along their coasts and their borders, and closed their markets to British manufactures. Whatever may be said about it from a sentimental or theoretical point of view, that is the situation in the world today. Every nation in the world is pursuing a policy designed to develop and permanently maintain home industry. Owing to the magnitude of her natural resources Canada may prosper exceedingly for a time by the exportation of her natural wealth, but that is a process of digging drains, not a process of creating a system of reservoirs.

We know the theorists and the idealists will say what they always have been saying, that economic warfare is quite as bad in its effects as armed warfare. We also know that the League of Nations has condemned tariffs and attributed to them the present business depression in Europe. But we further know that the nations have paid no attention to the resolutions of the League of Nations, and instead of abolishing, or even reducing, their tariff walls, have been raising them. The conditions are therefore what they are, and there is nothing for the nations to do but adopt measures of protection. Canada must adjust herself to the economic circumstances of the continent and the world.

Faith Healing Is Recommended to Episcopal Church

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Sponsored by a special commission after six years of study, a recommendation that the Protestant Episcopal Church give faith healing its official recognition, today held a place on the calendar of the church's triennial convention with indications that it would be given early consideration. Bearing the signature of three physicians in addition to members of the clergy, a report embodying the recommendation declared that "Christian healing has passed beyond the stage of experimentation and its value can be questioned."

CHILD RUNS BACK INTO HOME AFIRE

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 23.—Knowing that the flames which were destroying his home were also devouring the body of one of his five children, a boy of five years, John Smith, farmer, defied death early Sunday morning when he braved the way into the midst of the veritable inferno in a fruitless effort to save the child.

Hair singed, clothing afire and suffering severe burns, Smith staggered from the ruins a few minutes later, gasping for air.

Meagre details of the tragedy were contained in a dispatch to North Bay Nugget last night from Uno Park. The fire had made considerable headway before the family was awakened by it, and it was with the utmost difficulty that Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their five children made their way from the house. Apparently panic-stricken, the five-year-old boy dashed back into the building.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaels

PERIL.
Year on year he ventured
Into unknown lands,
Piercing tangled jungles,
Treading trackless sands.

Never did he falter,
Never did he ask
Less of risk or danger
In his daily task.

Lesser men, with wonder,
Followed his career,
Marvelled at his daring,
All untouched by fear.

But when rumors reached him
Of the world's amazement
At his splendid record
Of his dauntless days.

With bright gaze uplifted,
Stoically he said,
"I could fear no peril
Save to be afraid!"

Jots From the Arts

DA VINCI, one of the most famous of Italian painters, is best remembered today for his masterpiece, "The Last Supper." The figure of Christ was painted in the canvas soon after Da Vinci began work on the canvas, and a model was secured for the head of Jesus. Ten years later, when the painting was nearing completion, Da Vinci hunted for a man to model Judas. The man he secured was the same man who had posed for Christ ten years before.

FOREIGN POETS

Sir,—Two lectures have lately been given in this city by Dr. Sedgewick, of the B. C. University, on Rossetti and Walt Whitman, in which he lays a really extraordinary amount of stress on the sexual equality of these two poets.

He asserted that Rossetti had not propped up the Puritanical English that he had for the broader-minded Continental reader; and of Walt Whitman he said that Puritanical New England was ashamed of his writings.

I am no "uplifter," but as a student of literature for many years, I think I am qualified to state that there is no more broader-minded country than England in the world. God bless her: even though she might not be interested in the sentimentalism of an Italian poet.

When lecturing on poetry at the Victoria College, might it not be as well to make some mention of his divine side. No higher flight of the human mind has ever been recorded than that of the mind of the Englishman, Shelley, in his "Prometheus Unbound." Why not let us hear a little about that, or something similar?

I have been told that a horrid book has lately been issued about the Puritanical Englishman, the poet, Milton.

GLADYS SHRAPNEL,

FISCAL POLICIES

Sir,—In last Sunday's edition of The Colonist a letter appears under the signature of F. J. Bourne, in which he attacks the great National Policy of Canada, namely, Protection. With your permission Mr. Editor, I desire to ask Mr. Bourne a few questions with comments thereon.

Is it not a fact that both the Republican and Democratic candidates for President have both emphatically endorsed a high protective tariff in their campaign speeches and also the principle of a still higher tariff if necessary to protect labor and industry? Ask any workman who has lived in different countries whether he would rather have low wages and cheap living or high wages and expensive living. I have yet to find one who has not approved of the high wages and higher cost of living.

If the United States could build up a rich and prosperous nation under Protection what fault can we find with that policy? Would not the American people, who are constantly chasing the Almighty Dollar, soon discard this policy if it was not advantageous to them as a nation?

Would it not help or bring any relief to the United States farmer if the duty was removed from wheat and the Canadian farmer was permitted to dump his surplus wheat upon their market?

Is it right that Canada should have $300,000,000 of trade difference with the United States, that is, we buy that much more from them than they do from us?

Would any other country but Canada, who practically controls the asbestos, nickel, pulpwood, and logs of North America, permit these commodities to leave our shores to give employment to foreigners without an adequate return?

The greatest difficulty we have in Canada today is to convince the average British subject from Britain that Protection is the best policy for this country. All his youthful training and traditions make him a free trader, but after he has lived in Canada a few years he sometimes becomes an ardent Protectionist. Mention Protection in England to a mechanic or the average citizen and his reply usually is, "What? Protection and tax my bread and butter?" He has never stopped to think that the added employment and higher wages under Protection create a far better living conditions for him.

What is the legislation generally known in Britain as the safe guarding of Industries Act, but Protection disguised under another name. If England is so happy under free trade and this policy so good, why is the dole system in force and so many thousands out of work? If free trade is good for Canada why do not the Liberals under the Mr. Mackenzie King give us free trade and Saskatchewan would vote for it and we would then have a test made of this policy.

Mr. Bourne in his criticism of the Hon. Dr. Toimile is rather premature inasmuch as our Premier has only just received his mandate from the voters and I think should be given an opportunity, or time, to introduce his policies and make good, all of which I believe he will accomplish judging from his past record for foresight and efficiency.

CAPTAIN T. QUILLIAM

Sir,—Sunday being Trafalgar Day, it may be of interest to the readers of The Daily Colonist to know that a Manxman, from lovely Mona's Isle, one Trent Quilliam, assisted in steering H.M.S. Victory at the famous battle of Trafalgar, a battle that laid the foundation of old England's greatness on land and by sea. He afterwards became Captain Quilliam, of the Royal Navy, and later, after a brilliant career in the navy, was laid to rest in the shaded quiet of Kirk Arbory churchyard, in his beloved Isle of Man, thus closing a life of good service to the Crown; and his well-preserved grave has been visited by all good Manxmen and by thousands of visitors yearly, who flock to the wonderful island, picturesque and historical, which lies in the midst of the Irish Sea.

Surely there can be no greater deed, in the long annals of an historic land, than to steer one of his country's men-of-war, in a great and decisive battle, to victory, and the name of Captain Quilliam will always be associated with the signal victory that we are celebrating today.

EARTH'S LARGEST ANIMAL

Sir,—I always pride myself that my Colonist is, first of all, the most tidy paper I know of, second, that it is up-to-date and has one of the most tolerant of editors. Letters are published in its columns which would not have a dog's chance in other papers. I was therefore surprised to read in Friday's issue an article under the heading, "World's Largest Animal," containing a statement that the blue whale is the largest animal living today, and is, also, so far as is known, the largest animal which has ever existed on the earth or in its waters. Its length is sometimes eighty-seven feet.

Enclosed is an account of the latest find by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, scientist and explorer. From the Gobi Desert comes the fossilized bones of an animal eight hundred feet long. For years, at various times, with little success, I have tried to pack into Noah's Ark the animals of the earth, sometimes lengthwise, and sometimes sideways, but after seeing the picture of this latest find I have decided to leave the job to a magician.

Recently a little girl was taken to London by her parents. On her return she was describing all the places she had seen to some young friends. One of them asked, "Did you see the Old Bailey, where they hang the murderers?"

"No," replied the girl, "I don't think so, but I saw the Royal Academy, where they hang the artists."

Victoria Tipping Over Toward the Southeast, Gonzales Records Show

Victoria is in proud possession of the pioneer seismographic record of the world. At a meeting of the Astronomical Society last night at Gonzales Heights Observatory, Mr. R. Napier Denison, the director, showed an interested audience the instrument with which the record had been made thirty years ago, and which is still in use. This was interesting, but hardly less interesting was one of the director's own inventions, a radio time sender which he designed and made with the help of wireless service experts. It is this instrument which operated on the principle of a gramophone motor which turns an electric clutch, broadcasts the time twice daily. Although of recognized use to ships all over the Northern Pacific, Mr. Denison noted that the landman with a radio-receiving set might take advantage of the information just as well. The apparatus began to operate at two minutes to 10 in the morning, and two minutes to 7 at night, so that the broadcast takes place exactly on the hour.

In addition to the room in the basement containing the seismographic instruments and the time room on the main floor, visitors were taken to the little observatory where they had the privilege of peering at the moon and Jupiter through the four-and-a-half-inch telescope in the dome, while outside Mr. Pearson, the president, trained on the same bodies a four-inch telescope lent by Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Dominion Observatory. The atmosphere was unusually clear, and the craters of the moon were clearly visible, also the cloud belts and four satellites of Jupiter. In connection with the latter, it was explained that it would take eleven planets like the earth strung together to equal the diameter of Jupiter, or 1,399 to make its bulk.

THOUSANDS VISIT

In opening his address, which was generously illustrated with lantern slides, Mr. Denison instilled the popularity of seismology by commenting that since the opening of the Gonzales Observatory in 1914 over 35,000 people had visited the seismographic instrument room. Since the late C. O. Hastings had installed a telescope on the roof over 8,000 people had looked at the sun-spots through the instruments, this phenomenon of sun-spots seeming to have an unusual interest for the public.

"We record here on an average one quake a day," the director told his audience in his address, "and some of the interesting records of earthquakes have been thrown on the screen. Gonzales Heights has proved an ideal site not only for seismological investigation, but also for meteorological work. The rocky character of the foundation made it particularly suitable for the former. The instruments were so delicately constructed that they could pick the most delicate kind of motion in the earth's crust—even the weight of the slides. The vertical instrument would measure the motion of the earth up to one-thousandth part of a millimeter. Even the effect of the sun's heat in expanding the rocks and the resulting in a mark, or the cold wind from the north created oscillations; or the action of waves striking on the rocks, changes of atmospheric pressure passing over the rocks, and other vibrations were recorded. Through the instruments it was known that there was an infinitely slight but constant rise of the land toward the southeast."

SUNSHINE TABLE

Other charts thrown on the screen illustrated the superior climate of Victoria when compared even with other parts of British Columbia. By this it was shown that Victoria headed the list, experiencing great advantage from the proximity to the Sooke Hills. Although only thirty miles away, these hills, the Sooke Island West Coast rainfall of 120 inches per annum to the twenty-seven inches which is Victoria's average. Nanaimo, north of here, experiences thirty-eight inches. Vancouver sixty, and Prince Rupert 100. The mean temperature of Victoria was also shown to be kinder than that of surrounding towns, the mean range of temperature for Summer and Winter lying between thirty-nine and sixty-one. Vancouver's corresponding figures were thirty-five and fifty-five, and Kamloops, twenty-three and sixty-nine. The effect of the Sooke Hills was to force up moisture-laden air sweeping in from the Pacific. Reaching the cooler attitudes of the hills, the condensed and fell before reaching Victoria, thus making for a lighter rainfall than was experienced elsewhere on the coast.

VALUE OF CHARTS

The practical value of the storm chart was explained by Mr. Denison. Ships at sea benefited particularly from the information broadcast. The charts being made up and the centre of storm depression, ships picking up the information about these could change their courses to avoid the danger.

STUDENTS AND WORKMEN FIGHT BITTERLY—POLICE CHARGE CROWDS

Government Order Closes Four Universities—Stormy Debate Ends in Duel Challenge

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 23.—A Government order closing four universities, a bitter parliamentary debate ending in a challenge to a duel, 140 arrests and numerous minor casualties were the products of renewed anti-Semitic riots today. Students and workmen fought bitterly, police charged the crowds viciously, and Government adherents alleged that the students were aiming to overthrow the government.

The outbreaks among the students started several weeks ago, when they alleged that the Government was investigating until after an official investigation has been completed. The order closing the four universities will be effective until after an official investigation has been completed. The order closing the four universities will be effective until after an official investigation has been completed.

Amidst the uproar created by these charges, the Minister of the Interior, Bela Soltovszky de Nagyker, made himself heard and called upon Dr. Fabian to produce the evidence upon which his allegations were based.

The deputy failed to do so and was suspended from the House by the Speaker. Then the under-secretary challenged him to a duel.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Judgment was reserved by the Supreme Court of Canada today in the appeal of the executors of the estate of the late Isaac Untermeyer, of this city, against the valuation set by officials of the Provincial Government of British Columbia for succession duty purposes.

The estate was valued by the executors at $1,555,000, while the valuation set by the commission was $1,868,000.

The book value of the shares at the time of death was $1.19, while the market quotation was $2.20. The executors filed an affidavit on the basis of book value. The Department of Finance proposed valuing the shares on the basis of the market quotation.

War-Time Conspiracy Case in San Francisco Dismissed—To Dismiss Indictments

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Fifty-one indictments against persons involved in the sensational Hindu revolution conspiracies during the war will be dismissed in Federal Court here. Dismissals will be based on a request for prosequi filed by United States Attorney Henfield today.

The original indictments were against ninety-seven persons, including Franz Bopp, former German Consul-General here, former German agent, a number of Hindus, and a few Americans were included. The case involved the shipment of arms and ammunition to India during the war, allegedly to incite revolution against Great Britain.

Death Robs Ottawa Of Famous Daughter

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 23.—This city has lost one of its most famous daughters in the death of Elizabeth McCollivray Knowles. She was among the foremost of women painters in Canada. At her funeral three of her paintings rested at the head of the coffin.

During the residence in Toronto of Mr. and Mrs. Knowles, their studio was the centre of the city's artistic life, and partook of the atmosphere of the old-time salons—a rallying place for all interested in aesthetic things. Of her work it can be said that it was eminently sane and appealing. In her pure landscape work she took no liberties with nature, and that her drawing was finished and capable is evidenced by her paintings of the comedies and tragedies among the fowls of the barnyard. It was probably by such subjects that she was best known. The fowls of various breeds which served as her models gave her opportunities for the legitimate employment of gay hues. To these glimpses of the hen house and the "run" she brought a wealth of observation and sympathy. Her skill in the management of tone was also evident in her treatment of blazing sunlight or the dark interiors of barns.

In her outdoor landscape work her trees were deeply rooted, and in the sky the clouds were vaporous. In such work she was particularly happy, in fruit trees laden with blossoms. Corners of gardens also made their appeal, her love for

Some Smart Successes in the Evolution of the Season's Chapeaux

HATS of Parisian designing bear testimony that millinery has forsaken the customary cloche and helmet to give way to more alluring variations of tilting brim, draped toque and sleek little cap. Afternoon hats drop low at the sides toward the back, are worn off the face covering almost none of the brow. Crowns remain practically the same and the brim is depended upon almost solely of individuality. The cloche in a youthful line of brim is shown in the larger model illustrated from the collection of Rose Valois. The crown of red felt with self bow has a lower band and a gracefully drooping brim of black panne velvet.

A typical example of new lines is the semi-cloche from Agnes, framing the profile of the sweet-faced lady above. Water green merges into jade green velour to form crown and brim. A water green paradise motif combined with black algerette nestles at the right side.

The toque of Saxon blue velvet, snuggly draped toward the back to lend a sophisticated line to the appearance of the head, is Rose Valois' suggestion for formal wear. Three shades of blue asprey, light, medium and sapphire, are tucked under the drapery.

Suzanne Talbot's cap of black pony skin bordered with black satin is worn by the veiled lady. A smoked glass ring hangs from the inside of the brim. The hexagonal black mesh veil is very short in the back and is laced inside the edge of the cap. Seductive, is it not?

News and Notes of Realty in Victoria and District

By H. D. PATTERSON

Three of the most prominent real estate brokers expressed themselves most strongly to the writer with regard to unauthorized purveyors of deals in the business district that have received much publicity recently. These brokers feel that statements which have no basis in fact can only do harm. They fear that the public will get the impression that the real estate fraternity is trying to start a boom, which they state is the last thing they would wish.

Established firms here are still feeling, though in a lessened degree, the effects of the boom of 1910-13. Extreme activity in the real estate market, accompanied by really rapid progress along other lines, can only end, they say, in ruin to speculators and investors, and an entire cessation of sales, and no benefit except to the fly-by-night operator and the curbstoners.

The writer has ascertained, from first-hand sources, that the northwest corner of Yates and Douglas Street is still owned by a local company, no sale having taken place to the United Cigar Stores. The owners of the Copas & Son store state that this also has not been sold, although they acknowledge that some negotiations have been made with a view to a purchase.

Alfred Carmichael & Co. Ltd. announce that the Metropolitan Chain Stores, which organization some time ago bought the freehold of the property on Douglas Street known as the Jewell Building, have today completed the purchase of the lease, to take effect on January 1, and that tenants, with the exception of the Dominion Bank, have had their notification to vacate.

Messrs. R. S. Day & Sons, which firm, during the lifetime of Mr. R. S. Day, were very active in real estate in Victoria, announce that they have real estate department, with Mr. H. E. Pratt in charge.

The writer has compiled an interesting comparison of sales from these reports, covering the period from January 1 till September 30, in the years 1927 and 1928. Total sales recorded during the 1928 period were 617, as against 470 for the corresponding period in 1927. In 1927 there were 313 local buyers and 147 newcomers; in 1928 there were 474 local buyers and 143 newcomers. By localities these sales totaled as follows:

Victoria City	226	268
Oak Bay	147	138
Esquimalt, Saanich, and other suburban localities	87	210

Brokers visited reported sales for the last month as follows:

Pemberton & Son—A new house of seven rooms on Dallas Road to a newcomer from Eastern Canada.

So far, the only heavyweight elimination bouts definitely settled on by Tex Rickard are between Otto Von Porat and Paulino Uzcudun on November 5, and Billy Stirling and J. Dorval on November 23. They are rated as eliminations. Neither match is likely to do much toward solving the heavy weight problem.

Von Porat is just a fair man, who has been doing pretty well in the Middle West. He is good enough to beat the second stringers, but doesn't figure to give the topners much of an argument. Paulino, who is one of the most rugged and hard hitting of the contenders, ought not to have much difficulty with him. He showed that his lay-off had not done him much harm by the manner in which he handled Big Boy Peterson.

The Spaniard knocked Peterson out. But by striking him when he was on his knees, Paulino lost the decision on a foul. It didn't hurt his status as a contender, nor is his status likely to be affected by Otto Von Porat, either.

The Stirling-Dorval match is a different matter. For a time it looked as though Billy was through as a major contender. After I beat him, a year ago last summer, he stuck to fighting in the small towns. Then he was brought back to meet Johnny Squires, one of the poorest heavyweights Australia ever sent to this country. Strib stopped Squires in a couple of rounds, thereby creating a babyhook for himself. It wasn't a victory to be taken too seriously. Stirling will probably have more trouble with Dorval.

Napoleon Jack is a big fellow, who has excellent form. He has been followed by bad luck in the shape of injuries and other things. Still, he shows flashes of form and may give Billy more trouble than he figures to at the moment. Stirling ought to win, but he won't find a Squires in there against him.

Apparently no one ever gets discouraged by being eliminated. Here's Jim Maloney cropping up again with threatening gestures. Jim was knocked out by Sharkey, Godfrey and Henney, but he didn't quit. In recent fights he has beaten several fair men, including Jack Renault, and is hopeful that he'll be able to climb to the top again. You can't hate a fellow for trying.

Within a couple of months there will be a lot of bouts that should decide the issue. Those big fellows who aren't so anxious to take chances with rough opponents will have to go in with the leaders if they are to be recognized. It will be a merry how-do-you-do.

COLLEGE LOSE TO BRENTWOOD TEAM

Closely Contested Rugby Game Played Over Week-End Ends in Six-to-Five Score

Brentwood College won its second exhibition game of the season on their home grounds Saturday, when they routed the Victoria College fifteen in a closely-fought battle by a 6-5 score.

After a fine three-quarter run Nelson succeeded in getting over Brentwood's line for the first points. The try was converted.

In the second half lives evened the count a few minutes after the whistle blew and Robertson failed to add the extra points. Shortly after this, Emdore dropped over the visitors' touch line for what proved to be the winning try.

ROY WORTERS WILL TAKE CARE OF HEMP FOR NEW YORKERS

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—The Montreal Gazette, in its sporting columns today, says:
Roy Worters, goalkeeper of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and regarded by many as the best net guardian in the National Hockey League, is practically certain to be seen in a New York American uniform this season, according to reports reaching here regarding the still hunt that Tommy Gorman has been on as he proceeds in his quest to rebuild the Americans. Gorman has made it plain that he was after a goalkeeper, and it is known that Roy Worters has been asking a high figure from the Pirates, which the club officers are not inclined to pay.

MIGRANTS NOT TONS OF CARGO

VALUE OF IMMIGRATION DEPENDS ON QUALITY, SAYS FINANCE MINISTER

Cannot Be Reckoned in Numbers—Must Consider Character and Individual Aims

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—"One good newcomer who has a good racial backing and who fits into our Canadian life is worth a thousand unassimilables," Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, told the representatives of child welfare work speaking at a luncheon here today. Exponents of immigration schemes should not use the yardstick of numbers in their criticisms on expected results. It was flesh and blood that was coming off the ships and not bales of goods.

"Let us confine such types of calculation to imports and exports of mercantile products. Let us quarrel, if unfortunately we must, over tariff policies and trade figures, but let us forget all such standards when we consider immigration returns."

Mr. Robb was speaking on behalf of the Minister of Immigration, who is in the West.

ALL ARE INDIVIDUALS
"It is anticipated that about 3,000 children will come in this year from the British Isles under the selected juvenile group scheme," said the minister. "We all want those children to succeed. I hope that you do not hope to arrive at a general solution by working out fixed rules and regulations. You have 3,000 individual viewpoints among the newcomers this year. Each of the children has an individual ambition as to the future."

SCENARIO WRITTEN BY RECTOR'S WIFE ATTRACTS NOTICE

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 23.—"Little Grey Doors" is the title of a scenario of Canadian authorship, which the motion picture bureau of the Ontario Government is now producing at Trenton. It is the work of Mrs. G. F. B. Doherty, wife of the rector of St. Luke's, of this city, and the film will be the first of the kind produced by the motion picture branch, although a Canadian picture of more elaborate character, Bruce Blair's "Carry On, Sergeant," has been under way for some time at Trenton.

The story begins with a child's dream. Through the "Little Grey Doors" he sees himself mirrored in the actions of naughty children. The mother is the only adult figure in the cast, but there are numerous little elf, there is a moral to the story, but cleverly veiled in the plot.

"I think it is going to be an interesting picture," Hon. J. D. Munro, who administers the bureau, said. "It will be added to our library, which we endeavor to keep replenished by our own home material. These films are made available to churches and schools and other institutions all over the province, and are, of course, not commercialized."

The author of "Little Grey Doors" has been a resident of Toronto for about fifteen years, since Mr. Doherty came to St. Luke's from St. Paul's Cathedral, London. She is a native of Perth County.

The spirit of Athos, Porthos and Aramis lives on forever.

American Engineer Recently Released by Mexican Bandits Tells of Repeated Threats to Consign Him to "La Tierra"

By E. J. BUMSTED
(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

While I was on my way to Mojoneras, my captors told me that there I would meet General Luis Annaya, in supreme command of the rebel army. But the general never showed himself to me and I understand there are many of his reason for his retreating disposition is that he frequently leaves his army and travels about the more populous sections on trains, which meant that the fewer the persons who knew how he looked, the greater his chances of escaping the fate of captured Mexican bandit generals—a firing squad in the early morning.

On the third night after my arrival at Mojoneras the garrison was honored with a visit by Colonel Herman Cuarte, who with an army rarely numbering more than 200 is absolute dictator of the eastern part of the State of Nayarit. He is nominally under the command of General Annaya, but the general never gives him any orders.

He was accompanied by his staff and by a number of Cors Indians who had been just converted to the cause, although I couldn't understand how their conversion had been accomplished, since none of them could speak a word of Spanish. As any rate, although they wore few clothes, they had good rifles and were plentifully supplied with ammunition.

GREAT FEAST HELD
Later in the evening my original captor, Major Flores, arrived with some of his following. All forces joined in a great feast of dried beef, which was very plentiful that night. When I observed how the Indians enjoyed the meal I thought I comprehended how they had been persuaded to join the rebels.

At the end of the feast there was one of those impassioned harangues on the "sacred" mission of the revolutionists, with Flores doing the oratorical honors. The Indians left the next morning, and it was evident to me that they must have been told that I was a person of consequence, for each one of them came over to me and shook my hand ceremoniously and gravely.

I was left to my own devices for the remainder of that day, but the following day Major Flores sent for me and for the first time since my capture spoke frankly concerning the nature of my fate. If the money he wanted was not forthcoming,

For no reason that I can think of except that he himself had been made dizzy by the size of the sum he had first demanded, he now expressed himself as willing to accept a mere 20,000 pesos. He was polite but firm, and it was with a touch of seeming sadness that he informed me of the inexorable necessity of planting me in la tierra if he didn't get the money. He set the time limit at fifteen days.

I was ordered to communicate with my employers, the Alvarez Mining Company. I pointed that I wasn't supplied with paper or pencil, but he produced both quickly and I sat down and wrote a telegram to P. G. Holmes, my representative at Guadalajara, in which I explained my plight. The telegram was entrusted to Lino, my Mozo, who took it to Ixtlan, whence it was wired to Holmes. I also gave Lino a telegram addressed to my wife in Los Angeles, which he also filed in Ixtlan, but it never reached its destination.

The bandits allowed Lino to make the journey to Ixtlan alone, knowing he didn't dare go to the Federal Garrison and lead an expedition to their stronghold. It was a full day's ride from the camp to the town, and I resigned myself in patience to await the boy's return.

A NEW CHIEF
The next day Flores left the camp, and the commanding officer became one Captain Trinidad Menchaca, a large, dark, fierce-looking citizen with a flowing black moustache. Before allying himself to the "cause" he had been a miner.

When Lino had been gone two days, I learned that one of the rebel troops was being sent to the town of Buenas Aires to purchase—yes, purchase—supplies. I asked the captain whether this soldier wouldn't be allowed to deliver a message from me to H. Chegwidden.

Famous Artist Now Visiting Dominion

one of the two Americans at the mine near the town. In the message I took a chance, and besides telling Chegwidden of my situation, gave him the exact location of the camp. That message, I learned later, was never delivered.

Finally, on the third day after his departure, Lino returned from Ixtlan. He had entrusted my telegram to W. E. Mitchell, an American mining man living in the town, and had waited until Mitchell received a reply from Holmes. He brought word from Mitchell that the latter had received 5,000 pesos from Guadalajara to be paid for my release. Lino also brought me my shaving outfit and other small luxuries, such as fresh underwear.

I was greatly heartened, for 5,000 pesos had always been regarded before as a good haul by bandits, and I thought they'd be happy to accept a sure 5,000 in lieu of a hypothetical 20,000. My hopes were shattered the next morning when Captain Menchaca informed me that not only had the 5,000 pesos offer been found unacceptable by his superiors, but that the later were becoming impatient and had shortened my period of grace to five days. After that, Menchaca advised me menacingly, it would be his really unpleasant duty to consign me to "la tierra."

MAKES FURTHER APPEAL
Again I asked whether I couldn't communicate with Chegwidden at the Buenos Aires Mine. This time they permitted my message to go through, as it merely told of the apparent determination of the bandits to hold out for 20,000 pesos and of their shortening of the time, and requested him to telephone the news to Holmes in Guadalajara. He had a telephone at his mine. The bandits allowed Lino to carry the message.

I was rudely routed from slumber early the next morning, and told to mount my mule at once. The whole band moved off quickly and after a ride of about three hours halted at a small ranch called Sierra Mojada, on the banks of the Santiago River and easily the hottest place in which I've ever lived. The dirt and fifth here were even worse than at Mojanera.

From the conversation of my captors I learned that the quick exodus had been caused by some activity of the Federal Garrison at Ixtlan. But it couldn't have been very much activity, for no Federal soldiers ever came within sight of the bandits while I was with them.

Committee Working On Plan for Public Park at Lake Hill

Messrs. J. Ewing, W. Peddie, J. Richardson, L. W. Cockerill and J. McNair Paterson are a committee of Lake Hill residents appointed to work in conjunction with the committee from the Saanich Council, namely Reeve William Crouch and Councillor Fred Borden, on the arrangement necessary for the making of a public park on the Rock Street property belonging to the council, also to acquire sufficient ground on Reynolds Street for the creation of a football field.

Ten thousand dollars of the fund received from the sale of the municipal bus service is to be devoted to this purpose, and in the end the Lake Hill residents appointed to the surrounding neighborhood will have a beautifully laid out park, children's playground and fields for football and other games, which will be a credit to the district.

PERHAPS HE WOULD:

An old lady, not accustomed to the telephone called up, Berkeley 7888. After a moment, a voice at the other end announced that he was Berkeley 7887.

"How annoying," said the old lady. "I asked for 7868. Never mind, though. Perhaps you would be good enough to call next door and tell them Mrs. Jones is coming to-night."

WINTER APPLES PACKED

PENTICTON.—The Co-operative Growers' is in mid-season form, attempting to cope with the rush of winter varieties of apples which are now pouring into all the available space in and around the packing house. Jonathans are practically all cleared up and the winter brands are coming off the trees in rapid style. Delicious, Spies, Spitzenbergs and Snows are but a few of the varieties which make the life of the packers a busy one. Rome Beauties are now being loaded into the storage space, while the Staymans are due to rush the doors on Monday.

LARGE OFFER FOR MINES

ROSSLAND.—Operations on the Victoria Syndicate properties acquired some time ago by the Victoria Syndicate have reached the point where that mining area of British Columbia located on the Salmon River promises to become another Kimberley, according to reports coming from that section to the effect that only recently American interests offered the Victoria Syndicate $3,000,000 for its holdings at the mouth of the Salmon River acquired some two years ago from Messrs. Reeves & McDonald, the offer being refused and $6,000,000 being the price set for the property.

PIONEER WOMAN DIES

KAMLOOPS.—A link with the pioneer days of Western Canada was broken with the passing at the Royal Inland Hospital here of Mrs. Sarah Cartwright, eighty-seven, who was the early days at both Moose Factory and other Northern points, and Winnipeg, but formerly of England.

MINES BONDED

GREENWOOD.—A mining deal of great importance to Greenwood was consummated on Saturday when R. Crowe Swords and associates, of Vancouver, acquired fifteen Crown granted claims between Greenwood and Phoenix. These claims are on the site of the old Greenwood-Phoenix tramway tunnel and practically take in all the mining property between the Crescent Mine and Phoenix, a distance of about three miles. The Crescent, which is located on the Phoenix hill, has also been bonded to Mr. Crowe Swords.

PRINCE GEORGE TAXES

PRINCE GEORGE.—The city of Prince George has collected 70 per cent of its tax levy this year, which is the highest percentage of collection in the city. Very few lots went to tax sale last Monday.

AIRPORT FOR KELOWNA

KELOWNA.—The city council has set aside a large tract of ground in the north end of town to be reserved for future airport purposes. The property, with very little work, would be suitable as a landing field, and also has the advantage of waterfront on Okanagan Lake, making it ideal for seaplane use as well. A plan will be forwarded to the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, together with a landscape photograph. The area reserved is be-

DELTA DESIRES SHORTER ROUTE

Deputation Waits on Minister of Public Works With Regard to Ferry Across Fraser River

Mr. J. W. Berry, member-elect for Delta, and Mr. A. D. Paterson, the reeve of the district, composed a deputation which visited the city yesterday and interviewed the Minister of Public Works respecting the ferry which operates across the Fraser between Ladner and Woodwards Landing.

There has been an agitation for some time for the alteration of the ferry so that instead of making a circular route, necessary by the position of an island in the river, the ferry course should be shortened so as to cut down the time occupied in passing between the two points. It is proposed to make a straight course from Woodwards across the river, and then by means of a road from the new landing to the Fraser bridge, materially to curtail the time occupied.

Advance Made on Wide Front but Heavy Profit-Taking Causes Sharp Reactions in Some Stocks

BASIC INDUSTRIES
PROMINENT IN DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A general lowering of money rates today was accompanied by a broad upward movement in the shares of such basic industries as steel, oil, copper, with automobiles also taking a more prominent part in the rally. Advance was by no means uniform, as heavy profit-taking caused sharp reactions in some of the high-priced specialties.

United States Steel common climbed nearly 5 points to within a fraction of its record high on reports of trade improvement, and Crucible and Inland each sold more than 2 points higher.

Atlantic Refining was again the leader of the oil group, soaring nearly 16 points, a new high, at $19.78, which contrasts with the low of $5.34 early this year.

Eastman Kodak scored an extreme gain of 16 points, United Carbide ran up more than 7 points, a new high, at 197.8.

Motor Products, which were weak yesterday, rallied 14 points.

Chrysler led the advance in the automobile group by climbing more than 5 points to 133.8, losing a point of its gain on profit-taking.

Nash advanced nearly 3 points, General Motors ran into heavy selling after crossing 220, and closed only fractionally higher at 218.8.

Case Threshing broke 7 points on one sale, and Montgomery Ward, Midland Steel Products preferred, Advance Rumely, and Industrial Alcohol 2 to 4 points.

A further advance of Japanese yen to 48.8 cents featured the firm foreign exchange market. Sterling cables ruled slightly higher around 148.

The bond market reflected the irregularity of the stock market today, although the general trend was upward and the general level was high. Total sales were just under $11,000,000.

A pious lady had a husband who was a seaman. He was about to start on a long voyage, and as his wife was anxious for his welfare, she sent the following notice to the village preacher:

SAYS PACKERS' CASE UNSOUND

MEMBER DENIES WARNING GIVEN WAS INSUFFICIENT

Says He Knew Last Season Herring Reduction Licenses Would Not Be Granted This Year

PORT ALBERT, Oct. 23.—With regard to the Government's decision to enforce the order-in-council which prohibits the reduction of herring, a food fish, into oil and meal, the reduction plants and packing companies here state that they had insufficient warning. Licenses would not be granted for this season, and in consequence had already chartered boats, and prepared equipment. If licenses for reduction are withheld their financial loss will be very great they claim. They contend that it was understood that permission would again be granted, as it was last year and in 1926.

According to Mr. A. W. Neil, M.P., the case made out by the packers and plant proprietors is not sound. They knew before last season closed, he states, that licenses would not be granted for this year. It was clearly understood that the permission to reduce herring was granted only in those areas lying north of Barkley Sound, because at that time there was no salteries to absorb the herring catch, and prepare it for market as a food fish. At no time have the herring been reduced to oil and meal in Barkley Sound, as there has always been a sufficient number of salteries and kippers in that area. To the north of Barkley Sound, in Kyquoot and Nootka Sounds there are now salteries enough to handle the herring catch, and therefore the reason for the special licenses no longer exists.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF AQUARIUM FUNDS

Robert England Released on Bail of $5,000 by Judge Barker at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Oct. 23.—Arrested on a charge of theft of $2,800 claimed to belong to Edward Arthur Wilson, Cedar district president of the Aquarian Foundation, Robert England was given his freedom on bail of two sureties of twenty-five hundred dollars each by Judge Barker. Accused came up for preliminary hearing before Magistrate Bevo-Potts, who committed him for trial. Bail was immediately applied for by Judge Barker, who ordered his release on two sureties of $2,500 each. At the preliminary hearing Mr. Wilson gave evidence to the effect that England, who is one of the eight directors of the Aquarian Foundation, had issued cheques for $2,800 on an account in the name of the Mandish Settlement, which appears to be an offshoot of the Foundation, and the funds of which Wilson claims belong to him.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Peter Follows His Nose

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Peter Rabbit reached the Green Forest in safety. Then he began to look for his cousin, Jumper the Hare. The first one he met was Prickly Porky the Porcupine. Peter dearly loves to be a carrier of news. "Have you heard that Jimmy Skunk is lame because someone attacked him?" Peter inquired.

Prickly Porky merely grunted and started up a tree. It was very clear that Prickly Porky wasn't the least bit interested in Jimmy Skunk. A little farther on Peter met Bobby Coon. "Have you heard the news, Bobby?" cried Peter.

"Do you suppose there is anyone who hasn't heard it?" retorted Bobby. "You are a little late, Peter. A little late, Sammy Jay has already been here."

Peter looked a little disappointed, but wasn't altogether surprised. "Who do you suppose did it, Bobby?" he asked.

"Someone who was willing to take a chance, and who thought he would want to take such a chance, I can't think," replied Bobby. Peter went along. Pretty soon he could open his mouth to ask Jumper if he had heard the news, Jumper said: "Yes, Peter. I've heard the news. Now who do you suppose could have been so foolish?"

"I haven't the least idea," replied Peter. "I wish I had. But I'm going to find out. Yes, sir, I'm going to find out."

HUNTERS NEARLY LOST IN WOODS

Going is Tough and Venison is Tough But Home Reached in Safety

DUNCAN, Oct. 23.—When Harry and Elton Anderson, the twenty and twenty-one-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Anderson, went hunting early on Sunday morning in the Deerholm district, and had failed to return by noon on Monday, search parties were organized to locate the missing men. The searchers met the overdue hunters shortly before 2 o'clock, however, they having succeeded in reaching civilization by their own efforts.

The Anderson boys went in the bush near the old Hindu mill, but found the hunting poor owing to the large number of hunters in the neighborhood. They struck deep into the rough country to the west, and traveled further than they intended. About 5 o'clock Sunday they shot a deer and made camp for the night shortly after. Having had no food since early morning they were glad of some venison steak. Even though this was burned black on the outside and was raw in the middle. The next morning they reached a stream and wisely decided to follow it, which brought them out to the C.N.R. track and civilization in the early afternoon.

NANAIMO, Oct. 23.—Thomas Tunnah, of Brechin, at an early hour yesterday morning was conveyed to the Nanaimo Hospital suffering from scalp wounds as the result of a fall over the bank onto rocks near the Brechin cannery. When found Mr. Tunnah was weak from loss of blood, but no serious results are anticipated from his misadventure.

GRAIN CAPACITY NEARLY REACHED

Over 8,000,000 Bushels Stored in Vancouver Elevators of No. 3 and No. 4 Grades

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—The amount of grain in storage here is approaching the capacity of the port, there being more than 8,000,000 bushels now in elevators. Nearly 8,000,000 bushels have been shipped already. There is not much No. 1 and No. 2 grade but a fine supply of No. 3 and No. 4. To date no tough grain has been received. The railroads are keeping a sharp eye on the situation and restricted loading may be required shortly, but no apprehension of any serious restriction is felt.

There are ships in port for approximately 1,000,000 bushels and ships due in the next seven days that will lift 2,000,000 bushels.

short cut through a rather lonely part of the Green Forest that he suddenly stopped and stretched his nose out—that wobbly little nose of his—and how it did wobble! Peter was smelling! Yes, sir, Peter was smelling!

"I declare," said Peter, "it seems to me I smell the secret of Jimmy Skunk. Now how can that be over here? Jimmy isn't over here and hasn't been over here. He was here last night away over the other side of Farmer Brown's. Perhaps one of his children has been over here, or perhaps Mrs. Skunk has been over here. And Peter was so very curious indeed. I think I'll follow this up. Perhaps I'll find out something."

So, very carefully Peter began to advance. All the time he was using his eyes and his ears and his nose. His eyes and his ears told him nothing, but his nose told him that someone with the scent of Jimmy Skunk certainly had been over in that part of the Green Forest very recently. The small green stream began to wonder and wonder. But he was nervous. Yes, Peter was nervous. So he would only take a hop or two and then stop it up, look and listen. But all the looking and all the listening told him nothing.

Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs

St. Mary's North—The meeting was in charge of Baloo Edwards, who was ably assisted by the Cub instructors and sixers. The Cub Scouts, with one eye open, practised their lighting out of doors. The Tenderpaws worked at book-baking, and also signalling under the pack's new Cub instructor, Scout Gordon Nicholl, who has been kindly loaned by St. Paul's troop. The pack is very glad to welcome him. A paper requested to make a special effort to be present and encourage the troop and pack by their support.

North Quadra Pack—The meeting on October 19 was taken by Akela Sherwood, Akela Spurr being ill. Some first aid badgework was given, also signalling under the pack's new Cub instructor, Scout Gordon Nicholl, who has been kindly loaned by St. Paul's troop. The pack is very glad to welcome him. A paper requested to make a special effort to be present and encourage the troop and pack by their support.

St. Mary's South—At the last meeting the pack gave a grand welcome to Mr. A. G. Horsfield who is starting a pack of Wolf Cubs at Brentwood. The Cub instructors gave instruction in knotting and ran a knot relay race. Akela took the recruits who passed their tenderpaw tests and will be enrolled at the next meeting. The law game was played and an exciting balloon contest was held.

Notice is given that the North Quadra Troop and Pack Committee will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers at Toimie Avenue headquarters on Thursday at 8 p.m. All parents and any others interested in scouting are earnestly requested to make a special effort to be present and encourage the troop and pack by their support.
